Editor's notes:

Hello all, I would like to welcome you to my first attempt at our newsletter. I am hoping you will all enjoy the read. I would like to thank everyone who answered my call for submissions and sent me some news to print. I have been newsletter editor for the Edmonton Kennel Club for the past 3 years and enjoyed it immensely. I thought I would take on the challenge of the Poodle Club newsletter and see what I could bring you. When I say challenge I mean it in a good sense. The Poodle Club of Canada is what it says, of Canada. How does a club get it's information out to it's members on a regular basis? Via this format. Despite the age of electronics, which I will not deny as it does make this job so much easier, not all in this world are connected to the internet, including some of our own members. Again thank you to all who have contributed to this issue. Kathy

COVER STORY:

We all know "Justin", also known as Alias Just Give Me That Wink. Justin had an amazing year last year and came out on top. He finished last year with 53 BIS. He went south of the border to Seattle in February and had 2 back to back BIS this year as well.

Justin is the stud puppy back out of an American bitch of Mary VanWinkle's, Ch. Wink's She's Got The Look.

Justin finished as a puppy very quickly and then went home to mature and enjoy the couch for awhile. He was brought out at the end of 2001 to play with and see how he was doing and never looked back.

At the end of 2002 both Justin and Teri were tired from the long year of campaigning, but finished with many records overcome.

#1 All breed CKC 2002 with 19.675 points
73 BIS- most for Standard Poodle in career
53 BIS in 2002 – most for Standard Poodle in one year
2 Award of Merits at PCA
6 BISS
5 BPIS
3 groups as a puppy, winning his first group and puppy show at 6

1/2 months over BIS competition with a Jr. handler Sharley Palash. Won 2 majors as a puppy.

Last year Justin had 111 breed wins and went on to 96 group wins. When talking to Lynn Taplin about Justin she mentioned that he has, at the young age of 5 years old 29 progeny with Canadian championships, and 4 major pointed in the US, with more waiting to grow up and get into the ring. He also has some up and coming Obedience stars as well.

On behalf of all of us in the world of Poodles we would like to extend Lynn and Teri Taplin a hearty congratulations.

Simon' Story: As told by owner Leila Marshall to Cheryl Ingwersen

The session where the first photos were taken was the only training he had that year (2000). It was done as much "for fun" as anything else. That year was spent concentrating on Tyler (my Golden) getting his title. Because of his size, we knew Simon could not compete. Didn't occur to me to work more than one dog (I'm now working three!)

It wasn't until the VCKC Obedience Trial in April 2001 when I introduced myself and Simon to you at ringside, and you told me that the CKC was removing the size limitation from WC effective 2002 that I even considered formally training the little man. My good friend and mentor (Rita Jones) has been our primary level of encouragement. Rita recognizes retrieving talent after so many years of participating as both judge and competitor in the sport.

Did we have any challenges? You betcha! One of the biggest hurdles was for me to not treat him like a "small dog." (He's 14 inches at the shoulder; 16 lbs in weight.) Rita would just nod each time I asked "Can Simon do that?" when she would set up a long retrieve on either land or water.

We began our training in late May 2001. Simon never did have difficulty retrieving pigeons. Out and back like a flash! He was, however, "challenged" by ducks. Never a problem in the water until the duck had to be brought out of the water. Our group used very large ducks last year (someone referred to them as "geese.") Even some of the larger breeds had to work at holding them. It was almost impossible for Simon.

Did he do it? Absolutely but not without going through the force-fetching program. That program taught him a lot ... and it provided him with a ton of self-confidence. Simon will "take" and "hold" ANYTHING!! I refer to him as "poster boy" for force-fetching in marshy areas, one of his biggest challenges was to navigate his way out and back without getting "stopped" by the vegetation (bull rushes, etc.) in the water. On one retrieve return last summer, he did get jammed against some fallen bull rushes. He did not panic (I almost did!) ... he kept swimming (not moving an inch), never let go of the duck, and the gunner had to come in with his canoe, and using his paddle, clear a path for Simon to reach shore true story! (Am attaching a couple of photos taken that day from a bridge gives a bird's-eye view of that particular retrieve).

The water also provided him with another challenge because we worked (and still do)

Tall grass also provided a challenge for Simon. At one particular training session this year when we were working in a field seldom used, the grass was a lot taller than it looked. The larger dogs managed just fine. So did Simon, although I literally lost sight of him when he had travelled 20 feet into the grass (all I saw from time to time was his head and tail and he jumped his way thru). The gunner didn't see him until he emerged right on top of the bird like he had followed a yellow line on some highway ... he reversed himself and came out at my feet. Radar! He's amazing.

This year we managed to obtain a few ducks of different varieties. That was very helpful to him to understand that "whatever" kind of duck was thrown, he was to bring it back, regardless of its size or variety.

Simon's other accomplishment was his CD at the VCKC trial last year.....earned it in three consecutive trials. He followed that with a HIT (197 1/2) at the PADO (Peterborough and District Obedience Club) trial one week later. He is currently preparing to try for his CDX, but obedience has been put on "hold" during the retrieving season. Perhaps this fall Agility was something we tried a couple of years ago, but once bitten by the retrieving bug, "something" had to go. Agility went.

What is Simon? He has the heart, soul and spirit of a very large dog who happens to occupy a small body. There's nothing he won't try in either obedience or field. He wants more, more, more of everything! He must have come into this world running because he'll retrieve until he's exhausted. Do I let him? Of course not. When all's said and done, however, he's a momma's boy. There's no place he'd rather be than on my lap. Until Simon came into my life, I didn't consider a dog to be a dog unless it could be patted on its head without having to bend down. I've come to realize that size doesn't matter!

Since the "Simon Story" of two years ago another Golden has joined the family. Look for the four of us in a swamp near you

Regards,

Leila

The Value Of A Mentor

by Joan B. Guertin

I have an assignment for those of you reading this article. Sit back in your chair, close your eyes and just for a moment, think back to that time when you obtained your first dog.

Remember the joys, the frustrations, the highs and the lows.

Now, take just a moment to reflect on where you are today: what you know and how you got your education. Did you have to learn through trial and error? Or, were you fortunate enough to have a mentor, someone who smoothed over the rough spots. That person who let you watch while they groomed, and answered the myriad of "stupid" questions that more experienced dog people would take for granted. For those of us blessed with a helping hand, the trip was considerably easier.

My introduction to the world of dog shows began with my first German Shepherd. She joined me in the spring of 1955. She was my best friend and constant companion. Having been raised with family dogs all my life and having read almost every dog book ever written, I thought I was pretty savvy. Actually, I was a really good pet owner. I didn't know I didn't know much until 1957 when I decided to join a dog training class with Kadee. That class led to membership in a dog club. Then I discovered that attending dog shows was really fascinating and was an endeavor in which my entire, young family could participate.

Wow, this was neat. But in fact I was really ignorant. I knew nothing about showing. I didn't even realize that my dog, although AKC registered, wasn't a show dog. I didn't know what to do in the show ring! I was a rank amateur! Fortunately a wonderful couple recognized my interest; appreciated my lack of knowledge and took me under their wing. They became my mentors and the time they spent with me; the hours spent pouring over GSD Reviews in their den on Sunday afternoons, are indelibly imprinted in my memory.

They talked to me of bloodlines. They showed me how to read pedigrees. They introduced me to genetics and we spoke of genotype and phenotype in breeding. They helped me in handling classes (even though my wonderful Kadee's conformation couldn't have won her a booby prize in a sanction match); they didn't even laugh at me when I took Kadee into the ring. They were helping me by encouraging me to work at handling a dog that was far from easy to show. They taught me to love the art of showing whether I won or lost.

That's how I learned about my chosen breed. My mentors were right there helping when I needed to select a stud that would improve my plain bitch. I was like a sponge, soaking up every morsel of information that they were willing to share. I read the books that they suggested. I took their advice in the ring. And, because I was willing to learn, others started sharing what they knew about the breed. It wasn't long before people were asking me to show their puppies for them. Soon I was getting to handle dogs that did have a chance of winning. Eventually we went on a search for a really good dog, one I could show with pride and that I won with!

Today, I show Corgis. Most of what I know about breeding and showing I can still attribute to my friends in those long ago days who were willing to help a rank amateur. Today, those friends and what they shared meant so much to me; they still impact what I do in terms of dealing with newcomers to our breed. Thanks to them, I learned the value of having a mentor. Now I am in a position to return that favor to others.

I am sure that most of us have been at ringside and heard the grousing about the way someone was handling his or her dog. Or how that newcomer crowded someone else in the ring. Or how poorly groomed that dog was. Or look at the equipment those folks are showing with. Or, too bad the dog is too fat/too thin/out of coat, etc. We criticize others and what they are doing, how they are breeding. But do we offer a kind word, a bit of advice and even more, become a truly interested person with more experience who could be a mentor.

One of the problems with many dog clubs is that the "old guard" leads the way. After a while the club dwindles in size as those folks get burned out from having to do most of the work. One day we wake up and there is no one left and the club folds. It is a pretty simple problem to remedy. Just mentor new people. Help them learn, assist them in becoming knowledgeable members of the club and the breed.

Everyone who sells a puppy has an opportunity to mentor a new member. Not everyone who buys a puppy is going to show it. Great, that means that there will be workers to do tasks that those of us showing can't do!

A number of years ago, a lady joined one of my training classes with her Corgi. She had no intention of showing, as it didn't interest her in the least. However, I encouraged her to attend the Golden Gate PWCF meetings with me and she found she enjoyed socializing with other Corgi people. She became interested in titling her dog in obedience. Then she attended a herding test and qualified her dogs (yes, by then she had added a second Corgi to the family). Now, years later she has held several offices in the organization and she has chaired the annual Herding Instinct Test for several years! Not only that, she is always available to help with club information booths at various events because not showing leaves her free to help other places and being involved in many aspects of the breed, she's become a valuable resource person. I am proud to have mentored her.

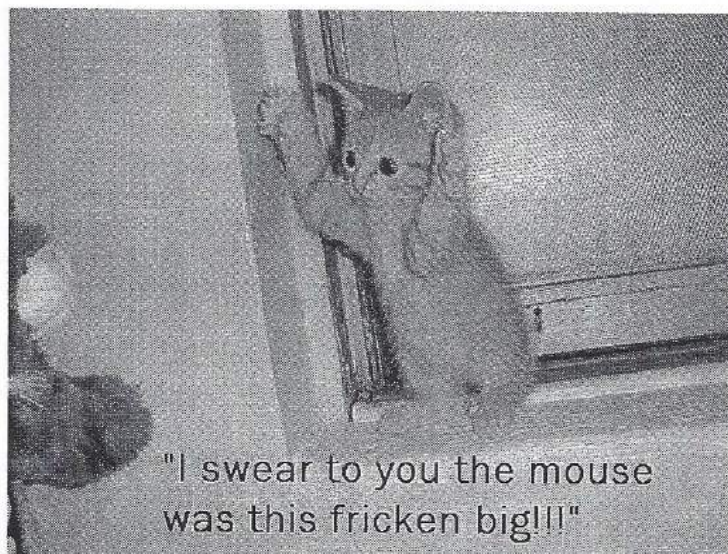

We are missing the boat by not mentoring new people. But, to mentor new people, we first have to get to know them. Sometimes I think that we become so insulated in our cocoon of familiar faces, that we fear reaching out and broadening our horizons. Some of the best friends I have in the world of dogs exist because I said hello to someone I didn't know. It is easiest around the Corgi ring because at least there is a common denominator right there. It takes no effort at all to approach a new face and introduce oneself. When I show in a new area, I automatically say hello to people I don't know and introduce myself. Admiring their dog is a guaranteed door opener. When I see someone at ringside with that blank "I wish I knew what I was doing" look, I definitely stop and strike up a conversation. When I see someone struggling, I offer to help.

Yeah, your helping just might help them beat you in the ring. It has happened to me, and it has happened the other way around. Back in the German Shepherd days I took a five-point specialty major from the American Bred class at the American Royal Building in Kansas City because a breeder offered to help me with my handling technique. The lesson was valuable and I went on to beat his class dog the next day. Thankfully he was laughing when he said that "damned if he'd ever help me again". But that is also part of the sport of dog showing. Win with grace and style and lose the same way.

If you don't want to mentor someone, at least graciously be willing to offer a helping hand when someone needs help. Remember you didn't come into the game knowing it all. The choice is to learn it the hard way (which may not be the best way) or to have help in learning it the right way. We with experience can help pave the way for the next generation of breeders, handlers and competitors. My theory has always been that if we are going to have competitors, let them be worthy competition. We can help them along that road with a friendly word, a valuable piece of information or by becoming their mentor. In the long run, we help ourselves as well as others. And that just makes things better for our beloved Corgis!

The Poodle Club of Alberta had a meeting before the Specialty making it hard for everyone to get the dogs groomed in time for the show. In Future meetings should not be planned the day of the specialty. The Poodle Club of Alberta Specialty was held on Friday evening starting at 7:00, making it a very late night for both poodles and humans. Besides the escaped Keeshonds show secretary Linda Barnes and myself finally caught, which caused me to miss the class with my puppy female, allowing me to concentrate on my Special, the show was very nice. The dogs all looked wonderful & everyone enjoyed the show. A social Function was held at a local restaurant Saturday after Best in Show due to the Specialty being late on Friday. The cost was $20.00 all Proceeds went towards other club functions. I was unable to attend the function but was told it was an enjoyable social event. Overall the show went very well.

Other News From Alberta:

POODLE JOKE

A wealthy man decided to go on a safari in Africa. He took his faithful pet dog along for company. One day the dog starts chasing butterflies and before long he discovers that he is lost. So, wandering about he notices a leopard heading rapidly in his direction with the obvious intention of having lunch. The dog thinks, "Boyo, I'm in deep doo-doo now." (He was a Standard Poodle) Then he noticed some bones on the ground close by, and immediately settles down to chew on the bones with his back to the approaching cat. Just as the leopard is about to leap, the dog exclaims loudly, "Man, that was one delicious leopard. I wonder if there are any more around here?" Hearing this the leopard halts his attack in mid stride, as a look of terror comes over him, and slinks away into the trees. "Whew", says the leopard. "That was close. That dog nearly had me."

Meanwhile, a monkey who had been watching the whole scene from a nearby tree, figures he can put this knowledge to good use and trade it for protection from the leopard. So, off he goes. But the dog saw him heading after the leopard with great speed, and figured that something must be up. The monkey soon catches up with the leopard, spills the beans and strikes a deal for himself with the leopard. The cat is furious at being made a fool of and says, "Here monkey, hop on my back and see what's going to happen to that conniving canine."

Now the Poodle sees the leopard coming with the monkey on his back, and thinks, "What am I going to do now?" But instead of running, the Poodle sits down with his back to his attackers pretending he hasn't seen them yet. And just when they get close enough to hear, the Poodle says, "Where's that monkey. I just can never trust him. I sent him off half an hour ago to bring me another leopard, and he's still not back!!

BC Director Anne Bankert's report:

I would like to take this opportunity to introduce myself. My name is Anne Bankert, I am a mature woman with 2 grandchildren. I live in Castlegar and I am the PCC director for B.C.. I have been a member of PCC for 6 years, quietly living here in the wilderness with my dogs.

Poodles came into my life over 8 years ago, I breed Standards and miniatures in brown and black also red miniatures. I show in Conformation and take part in Obedience classes, to keep my gang in line. I always hired a handler to show my dogs, then last year I stepped into the ring with a black standard male that I bred, he sports the Historically Correct Continental, and is presently on 7 points with a group placing. I don't get out to many shows so it may take me a while to finish him. I have met with a lot of interesting controversy...but that is for another time.

In a community close to Castlegar, this past winter, a lady and her Standard were out for a morning walk, they passed a partly overturned vehicle stuck in the ditch. As this is a common winter scene on this particular hill the owner thought nothing of it and attempted to continue their walk, but the poodle "Nelson" barked and leaped around the vehicle and would not leave. So the owner looked in, and there was an elderly driver, who had been trapped all night. An ambulance was summoned and he recovered in hospital. "Nelson" is the local hero.

The Most Expensive Collar You Ever Bought:

Why of course the very first show collar! How it all began... In the beginning you got your dog, a real show dog, and quickly realized that you needed the correct collar to show him on. This in turn led to a buttery smooth 3 foot lead. At your very first show, you noticed that you just HAD to have the proper grooming supplies also.

slicker brush $9.00, Comb $10.00, Spray bottle $4.00, Good Conditioner $15.00, Water Bottle $4.00, Pin Brush $15.00, Bait $10.00, and NEW collar (your dog has now out grown the first one) $14.00

YOUR FIRST POINT.....YOUR HOOKED.....

Bait $10.00, dog Show calendar $1200- don't want to miss any shows. By now your beginning to realize the back seat isn't a proper way to transport your dog.

Dog Crate $80.00

At your very next show you begin to feel a bit more confident and relaxed at shows. Borrowing and waiting to use your friends grooming table is so inconvenient. Grooming Table $95.00, Grooming arm $50.00, Bait $10.00

You begin to start collecting dog show things, old towels, skirts with pockets, dresses with pockets, good comfortable shoes, rain gear, water jugs, etc. $100.00

Too many grooming supplies?.....Tack box for supplies $50.00, Good comfortable camp chairs $35.00...we seem to be spending much more time at shows lately. Suddenly you realize all of these items and your dog do not fit into the family car anymore.

Used mini van $15,000.00

Somewhere around this point you get tired of waiting to use your friends blow dryer. New blow dryer $150.00, extension cord for dryer $15.00, Five-way plug for sharing with your new dog show friends $10.00, New and improved dog show collar and lead $40.00, New type of improved conditioner $15.00, bait $10.00, your friends favorite shampoo and whitener $35.00, new comb and slicker brush $25.00 (you lost the old ones at the last show), scissors $35.00 (kitchen shears just don't trim the pads right), and roll up mat for ground cover $45.00.

YOUR DOG PICKED UP HER NINTH SINGLE. The hunt for majors begins. After wasting much money on entries where majors didn't hold you begin to get frustrated and search out and find that new male show dog and a perfect match for your female! Crate for new dog $80.00, Show collar and lead for new dog (your tastes have been refined now), handling classes for new dog $40.00. Brand new larger mini van to accommodate 2 crates and all of show equipment $25,000.00

Now having 2 dogs to show and get ready quickly teaches you a generator is required! Generator $325.00, 2 kennels for outside $1000.00

You just gotta get those majors on your female. HANDLER for those major shows $200.00 +/- YOUR FEMALE FINISHES! , 2 kennels for outside $1000.00

You just got to get those majors on your female. HANDLER for those major shows $200.00 +/- YOUR FEMALE FINISHES! our new male is too young to breed. Updating and health clearances on female $200.00, stud fee $1000.00, Progesterone testing $200.00, whelping box $250.00, vet bills for x-rays, sonograms, well mother checks $400.00, putting first aid whelping mother kit together $300.00, Vaccines for new litter $150.00, x-pen for puppies $80.00, Whelping pads, fleeces, toys for puppies, weaning supplies, etc. $450.00, baby scale $45.00, well puppy and mother exams $150.00.

spectacular puppy in litter will be new show dog. Immediately realize mini van will NOT hold 3 dogs and show equipment. Motor home or full size van $30,000 to $100,000 !!!!! You realize you are eating macaroni and chedese while your dogs are eating humane grade dog food at $55.00 a bag.

CONGRATULATIONS!

You have now earned the title of "Dog Breeder" Aren't you glad you are finally making those big bucks breeding dogs? So far you have invested $75,652.00 in showing your 3 dogs. This figure does not include dog food, the initial cost of your dogs, entry fees, motel bills, general veterinary bills, toys and many other ownership incidentals. Your litter of puppies yielded 6 puppies, you kept one and sold the other 5 for $500.00 each. If you breed 30 or more litters you just MAY break even with your initial investment of $75,000!
